

Project Management

The project phases make up a project life cycle, and as such, the phases are tailored to fit a project's needs. The elements of a project life cycle should define:

- What work must be accomplished
- What deliverables must be generated and reviewed
- Who must be involved
- How to control and approve each phase

Determining these elements will take a project from start to finish. It provides a systematic, timely, and controlled process that benefits a project's stakeholders.
